Thursday 11th & Friday 12th October 2012
Commodore Hotel
Christchurch

This major nursing symposium, the first in the south island since the earth moved, is for all people working in areas contributing to the health and well-being of older people. Speakers from New Zealand and Australia will provide a range of social, health, nursing and political perspectives, and a consumer's perspective will also be heard.

The Symposium offers an excellent 2 day program considering current responses to older people's health care and wellbeing. This is a great opportunity for nurses and other interested health care professionals to gain valuable professional development hours, network with others and contribute to a blueprint for the future of nursing in the aged care sector. Delegates will receive a certificate for 14 hours professional development.

Lynn Chenoweth	Professor of Aged and Extended Care Nursing, UTS, Sydney
